

Prior to television, conventions really were gatherings to decide things. I think in 1924, there were 122 ballots at the convention; it went on for months. This does not make it a great TV show. A TV show has to be more contained and responsive to people's attention spans.